BIO / INTRODUCTION

Heather Schultz has been recognized as one of the top motivational speakers for youth in America. Since 1987, her keynote presentations, workshops and leadership trainings have inspired people everywhere! Heather’s presentations have been described as a “wild and wonderful roller coaster ride of humor, emotion and inspiration.” She believes in young people and the important role they play in our world. It is that belief that makes her a highly requested national youth speaker. She has keynoted for many state and national organizations such as FCCLA, SADD, National Honor Society, FBLA, Student Councils, and school assemblies.

Packed with content, humor, personal stories and interaction, Heather’s speeches ensure that her audience has an unforgettable experience. Heather has worked with HBO, appeared in People Magazine, on numerous radio and television specials and has co-authored several books for young people. Heather was also a performer in the opening and closing ceremonies of the 1996 Summer Olympic Games. She has spoken in 49 states and 7 other countries. She attended Central Michigan University and has a degree in the field of nursing. Heather is a nationally renowned expert on youth issues and a highly requested speaker that keeps her in constant demand. (continue reading if this is an introduction) We are happy to have her with us today.
